2- Prevalence of law and fare conditions:

These General Conditions of Transport are applicable to the extent not contrary to the applicable Convention and/or to any applicable law and/or to the fare conditions of the Carrier, in which case this Convention or law or fare conditions would prevail. b) Ticket Requirements to be entitled to the transport:

Except in case of Electronic Ticket, the Air Carrier will agree to supply the service of transport to the Passenger only if the latter is in possession of a valid Ticket duly issued in the name of the Passenger, or of any other equivalent contractual document in accordance with the Air Carrier's Regulations.

The Ticket, issued by the Air Carrier or his Authorised agent, will have been paid entirely, unless otherwise agreed or decided by the Air Carrier.

The Ticket will contain the Flight Coupon corresponding to the concerned flight and all other unused Flight Coupons as well as the Passenger Coupon or Passenger Receipt.

The Passenger will not be entitled to the transport if the presented Ticket is damaged or modified by any person other than the Air Carrier or his Authorised agent.

In the case of Electronic Ticket, the Passenger will be transported on a flight only if he produces his identity document and if a valid Electronic Ticket was issued in his name.

The Air Carrier may, at any time of the journey, check the identity documents of the Passengers.

c) Loss, alteration or no presentation of the Ticket:

In case of loss or alteration of all or part of the Ticket, or no presentation of a Ticket containing the Passenger Coupon or Passenger Receipt and all the unused Flight Coupons, the Air Carrier which issued the Ticket may, at the Passenger's request, and in accordance with the Air Carrier's Regulations, replace all or part of the Ticket by the issuance of a new Ticket, provided that at the time of his request the Passenger proves to the Air Carrier that a valid Ticket had been issued for the related flights.

The issuing Air Carrier of the new Ticket may charge the Passenger with Service Fees for such reissuing, unless the loss or the alteration was due to the Air Carrier or his Authorised agent.

If the proof mentioned in the previous paragraph is not brought, the issuing Air Carrier of the new Ticket may require from the Passenger first to pay the total price of the replacement Ticket.

Such payment will be reimbursed to the Passenger, if the latter brings the proof, to the issuing Air Carrier of the new Ticket, that the lost or damaged

Ticket was not used during its validity period or if he found the lost Ticket before its expiry date and handed it back to the issuing Air Carrier of the new Ticket.

Duty of diligence: the Ticket is a valuable document. The Passenger must take all measure to make sure that the Ticket is not lost, stolen, or damaged/altered.

d) Non-transferable Ticket:

Subject to the provisions of any applicable law in force, a Ticket is not transferable. If a Ticket is presented by a person other than the person entitled to be transported or reimbursed in accordance with the terms and conditions of such Ticket, the Air Carrier shall not be held liable for any consequences if, in good faith, it carried the person presenting said Ticket or if it reimbursed the person presenting it.

e) Control: :

Any Passenger benefiting from a Rate reduction or a Rate with special conditions , must be able to justify with the Air Carrier, the validity and regularity thereof at any time of its journey. In the absence of such justification, the Passenger (i) would be required to pay the difference between the Rate paid and the Rate he should have paid, or (ii) would be denied boarding.

Any Passenger who has acquired his or her Ticket by Banking Card through Royal Air Maroc's Website or Call Center, must be able at any time before the journey to justify to the Air Carrier that he or she is the holder of the Banking Card used for the payment of the Ticket or, failing that, must be able to provide a copy of:

- a valid ID from the person holding the Banking Card used for the payment, and
- the Banking Card used for such payment.

In the absence of such credentials, the Passenger may be (i) required to pay the Ticket with another mean of payment (which may be a Banking Card of a person present with him at registration), or (ii) denied boarding.

2- Ticket Period of validity and extension

a) Period of validity :

Unless otherwise stated on the Ticket or in these General Conditions of Transport or in the applicable fare conditions affecting the period of validity of a Ticket as indicated thereon, the period of validity for transport of a Ticket is as follows:

- One year from the issuance date of the Ticket, or
- One year, commencing on the date of use of the first Coupon, provided that the first travel takes place within one year of the issuance date of the Ticket.

b) Extension of validity:

(i) If a Passenger holding a valid Ticket is prevented from travelling during the period of validity of the Ticket, because, at the time of requesting a booking on a flight, the Air Carrier is unable to provide a seat on the desired flight, either the validity of the Ticket of that Passenger will be extended in accordance with the Air Carrier's Regulations or the Ticket may be refunded in accordance with the conditions set out in Article XI below.

(ii) If a Passenger, having begun his journey, is then prevented from travelling during the period of validity of the Ticket for health reasons, the Air Carrier may extend the validity of the Ticket of that Passenger either until (i) the date on which he will be able to travel or (ii) the first flight of the Air Carrier after such date, from the point on which the flight is resumed, so long as there is a seat available in the class of the Rates paid, and provided that the Passenger shall have produced a medical certificate, stating the reasons which prevented him from travelling initially.

Where the Flight Coupons remaining in the Ticket or in the case of an Electronic Coupon in the Electronic Ticket include one or more voluntary stops, the validity of such Ticket (subject to the Air Carrier's Regulations) may be extended by a maximum of 3 months, from the date mentioned on said medical certificate. In such circumstances, the Air Carrier may, in the same manner and under the same conditions, extend the validity of the Tickets of immediate family members the Passenger.

(iii) In the event of death of a Passenger during his journey, the Tickets of persons accompanying him may be modified, either by dismissing the concept of minimum stay or by extending the duration of their validity.

In the event of death in the immediate family of a Passenger whose journey has begun, the Tickets of the Passenger and those of the members of his immediate family accompanying him, may be modified in the same way. Any modification may only be made upon the production of a death certificate; the validity period of the Tickets shall not be extended more than forty five (45) days from the date of death.

Any extension referred to above shall be for carriage in the class of the Rates paid.

3- Order (or sequence) of uses of Coupons:

a) Each Ticket specifies the route to which it relates (from the place of departure, via any agreed stopover, to the final place of destination) and the Rate paid by the Passenger at the time of purchase, corresponds to the transport mentioned on the Ticket on the agreed dates, forming integral part of the Contract of Transport concluded between the Passenger and the Air Carrier.

Thus the Rate applied to the issued Ticket is only valid for full use of the Flight Coupons in the order (or sequence), class and dates of the route reserved from the point of departure as it appears on the Ticket.

b) In the case of Coupons issued without any mention of Reservation, the Reservation will be done in accordance with the conditions of the relevant Rate so long as there are seats available on the requested flight.

c) The Ticket Rate will be modified by the Air Carrier, if the Passenger does not use the first Flight Coupon corresponding to a given journey or if the Passenger does not use the Coupons in the sequence/order in which they were issued.

If the Passenger begins his travel at a Voluntary Stopover or intermediate stop, he must pay a flat-rate surcharge which amount shall be calculated according to the new route, travel dates and classes available. Thus, the Passenger will have to pay for the difference in Rates including induced Service Fees.

4. Modifications upon Passenger's request:

a) If the Passenger wishes to modify all or part of his travel, he must first contact the Air Carrier or his Authorised agent to ensure that his Ticket is modifiable taking into account the Rate paid. The new travel Rate will then be calculated based on the new data provided. The Passenger will have the opportunity either to accept the new Rate including the applicable Service Fees or to maintain its initial itinerary as defined on its Ticket.

b) If, following a duly established Force Majeure case, the Passenger should modify his Ticket, he must contact the Air Carrier as soon as possible, who will grant the Passenger a credit note corresponding to the Rate of his Non-refundable and/or non-modifiable Ticket, valid for one year and usable for a subsequent travel on the Air Carrier's flights, subject to the payment of applicable Service Fees.

5. Air Carrier's Identity:

5. Baggage allowance:

Depending on the Rate paid, destination and class of transport, Passengers may benefit from a free Baggage allowance, subject to the conditions and limitations set out in the Air Carrier Regulations. Items defined by the Air Carrier as being of excessive weight or size, dangerous for the safety or difficult to store are not accepted in cabin and may be embarked as Checked Baggage.

The fragile items and/or items that the Passenger does not wish to be transported as Checked Baggage, but the characteristics of which do not correspond to the standards fixed by the Air Carrier to be admitted in cabin, could only be accepted in cabin if (i) the Air Carrier was previously informed before the check-in and (ii) gave its authorisation for admission in cabin and (iii) the Passenger pays the extra charge if any for such service, which details are available with the Air Carrier.

In any case, Baggage and items admitted in cabin remain under the exclusive responsibility of the Passenger, unless a fault of the Air Carrier is established; in such a case, the responsibility of the Air Carrier will be limited to the amount fixed by the applicable Convention as the case may be and/or article XV of the present General Conditions.

If a person claiming a Checked Baggage is unable to produce the Baggage Bulletin and to identify the Baggage using the Baggage Tag intended for identification if any, the Air Carrier will only deliver the Baggage to that person provided he/she proves that the Baggage belongs to them. The Air Carrier may require such a person to provide sufficient guarantee to compensate any losses, damages or expenses incurred by the Air Carrier as a result of such delivery.

c) The acceptance of the Baggage by the holder of the Baggage Bulletin or the Baggage Tag, without written protest on his part at the time of delivery, constitutes a presumption that the Baggage has been delivered in good condition and in accordance with the Contract of Transport.

ARTICLE XV: LIABILITY FOR DAMAGE

1- General considerations:

a) The liability of the Air Carrier shall be determined by the General Conditions of the Contracting Carrier, issuer of the Ticket. If other air carriers are involved in the journey, their liability will be subject to their own general conditions of transport.

The transportation carried out under these General Conditions of Transport is subject to the rules and limitations of liability laid down by the Convention. The liability regime described below shall be applied in accordance with the applicable Convention, as appropriate, and IATA Inter Carriers Agreement as defined in Article 1 of these General Conditions of Transport.

To the extent that the following does not interfere with the other provisions of these General Conditions of Transport and whether or not the Convention is applicable:

- The responsibility of the Air Carrier is limited to the Damage arisen during the air transport for which its Designation Code is mentioned on the Ticket or on the Flight Coupon corresponding to the Flight. The Air Carrier which issues a Ticket or which checks in a Baggage for another air carrier acts only as representative or agent for such carrier. However, as regard Checked Baggage, the Passenger may claim against the first or the last carrier involved in his journey.
- The Air Carrier will have no liability for any Damage resulting from the compliance by it with any legal or statutory requirements or from the non-observance by the Passenger of the same.

- The liability of the Air Carrier will not exceed the amount of direct and proven Damages. Consequently, the Air Carrier will not be liable for consequential damages or for any kind of damages which are not compensatory.
- The Contract of Transport, including the General Conditions of Transport and all exclusions or limitations of liability which are mentioned here and there will apply and will benefit to the Authorised agents of the Air Carrier, his employees and agents acting in the exercise of their duties, his representatives and to the owner of the aircraft used by the Air Carrier as well as to the agents, employees and representatives of said owner. The recoverable global amount on the above-mentioned persons will not exceed the amount of the liability of the Air Carrier.
- If a harmful action or omission of the Passenger and/or his legal successors causes Damage or contributes to its emergence, the liability of the Air Carrier towards them will be either excluded or limited, in accordance with current applicable law.

b) Except as otherwise expressly provided, none of these General Conditions of Transport shall result in a waiver of any of the exclusions or limitations of liability of the Air Carrier or the owner of the aircraft used by the Air Carrier, as provided under the Convention or by applicable laws.

2- Provisions applicable to International Flights:

A) Bodily Damages:

I. Air Carrier's liability Scope:

In accordance with Article 17 of the Convention, the Air Carrier shall be liable for any injury in the event of death, or bodily injury suffered by a Passenger upon condition only that the accident that caused the death or injury occurred on board the aircraft or in the course of any embarking or disembarking operation, subject to any waiver of liability.

II. Air Carrier Liability Exemptions:

The Air Carrier shall not be liable for the damage if it proves that:

- the death, wounding or other bodily injury results from the condition of the Passenger's physical or mental health prior to boarding the aircraft;
- the Damage was caused in whole or in part by the negligence or other harmful act or omission of the person seeking relief or of the person from whom he or she is entitled under Article 20 of the Convention;
- the Damage is not due to the negligence, or to another harmful act or omission of the Air Carrier, its agents or servants where the amount of the Damage exceeds 128.821 Special Drawing Rights by Passenger in accordance with Article 21 §2 (a) of the Montreal Convention if applicable;
- the Damage results solely from the negligence, or another harmful act or omission of a third party where the amount of the Damage exceeds 128.821 Special Drawing Rights by Passenger in accordance with Article 21 §2(b) of the Montreal Convention if applicable.

III. Amount of repairable Damage:

The amount of the Air Carrier liability in case of death, of wounding or of any other bodily injury of a Passenger, in the meaning of the paragraph 1 above, is subject to no limitation, but subject to the applicable Convention. The Damage will be indemnified according to the evaluation of the direct Damage of the Passenger by mutual agreement, by expertise or by the competent courts. Within the framework of the present conditions, the Air Carrier will indemnify the Passenger only beyond any amounts collected by the Passenger under any public social insurance body or social security scheme to which it is affiliated, and only for the compensatory Damages.

In the conditions defined by any applicable law, the Air Carrier may, in the event of death or of bodily injury resulting from an air accident, make an advance payment on compensation to the victim or to his(her) beneficiaries entitled to compensation, to allow them facing their immediate financial needs in proportion to the damage suffered. Such advance will not be lower than the equivalent of 16 000 Special drawing rights in the event of death. Subject to the current applicable law, this advance will be paid within 15 days after the identification of the person entitled to compensation has been established. The payment of such advance will not be considered as worth admission of liability, and any paid sum will be deducted from the definitive amount of the due compensation. Said sum would be refundable in case it would have been paid to a person who was not entitled to compensation.

VI. The Air Carrier may exercise rights of recourse and of subrogation against any third party.

B) Delay:

I. Characteristics of repairable Damage:

The direct and proven Damage resulting directly from a delay is repairable. The Passenger has to establish the existence of the Damage caused directly by the delay.

II. Extent of the Air Carrier's liability:

The Air Carrier is not liable for the Damage resulting from a delay if it proves that him, his employees or representatives took all reasonable measures to avoid the Damage or that it was impossible to take them. The Air Carrier will not be liable for the Damage caused by a delay if said delay is attributable to the Passenger or if the Passenger contributed to such delay: in other words, if the Damage results totally or partially from the negligence, from a harmful act or omission of the Passenger.

III. Extent of repair:

In case of Damage suffered by Passengers resulting from a delay, the liability of the Air Carrier is limited to 5346 Special drawing rights by Passenger if the Convention of Montreal is applicable. The amount of the repair will be determined according to the Damage proven by the Passenger. In case of Damage caused by a delay in the delivery of the Checked Baggage, the liability of the Air Carrier is limited to 1288 Special drawing rights by Passenger if the Convention of Montreal is applicable. The Air Carrier may provide the Passenger a lump sum compensation to allow him facing his immediate essential expenses.

C) Baggage:

I. Principle:

Under Article 17 of the Convention, the Air Carrier shall be responsible for Damage in the event of destruction of, loss of or damage to Checked Baggage only when the event that caused the Damage occurred on board the aircraft or during any period during which the Air Carrier was in charge of the Checked Baggage.

II. Air Carrier Liability Exemption:

The Air Carrier shall not be liable for Damage to the Baggage of a Passenger where such Damage results from the nature or inherent defect of such Baggage and/or where the Passenger has contributed thereto in whole or in part by his negligence, act or omission.

Any Passenger, whose property contained in his Baggage is the cause of injury to another person or to the Air Carrier, shall indemnify the Air Carrier for losses suffered and for expenses incurred as a result therefrom.

III. Amount of repairable Damage:

For Checked Baggage, and except in case of act or omission done with the intention of causing injury or recklessness and with the knowledge that damage may result, the liability of the Air Carrier for proven damage shall be limited to 1288 Special Drawing Rights if the Montreal Convention is applicable. If in accordance with the conditions laid down in Article VIII-7, the Passenger has made a Special Declaration of Interest while checking its Baggage and has paid the corresponding additional costs, the liability of the Air Carrier shall be limited to the amount of the value declared unless the Air Carrier proves that such value is higher than the actual interest of the Passenger at delivery.

For Unchecked Baggage admitted on board, the liability of the Air Carrier may only be sought by the Passenger or engaged if the Passenger proves the fault of the Air Carrier. In such case, the Air Carrier liability will be limited to 1288 Special Drawing Rights if the Montreal Convention is applicable.

D) Applicable law:

In all cases where the Montreal Convention is not applicable, the applicable law shall be applied.

Where the Warsaw Convention system applies, the applicable liability limits shall be as follows:

1. 16,600 Special Drawing Rights in the event of death or bodily injury if the Hague Protocol to the Convention is applicable, or 8,300 Special Drawing Rights if only the Convention is applicable;

2. 17 Special Drawing Rights per Kilogram for Loss or Deterioration or Delay in Delivery of Checked Baggage, and 332 Special Drawing Rights for Unchecked Baggage;

3. The Air Carrier may also be liable for Damages resulting from delay.

Additional information may be obtained from the Air Carrier on the liability limits applicable to any air transportation.

3- Provisions applicable to domestic Flights :

a) For domestic flights within Moroccan territory, the regime applicable to the liability of the Air Carrier for Damage is that described for international Flights above, by application of the Moroccan law no. 40.13 of 24 May 2016 consisting in the Code of Civil Aviation.

b) For domestic flights in a State other than Morocco, the regime applicable to the liability of the Air Carrier for Damage depends on the law or regulation of the State concerned.

4- Deadlines for protestation and Damages actions:

a) Baggage protest notification:

The reception of Checked Baggage without protest by the Passenger within the deadlines constitutes assumption that the Baggage has been delivered in good condition and in accordance with the Contract of Transport, , unless the Passenger proves otherwise.

Any missing Checked Baggage must be necessarily complained to the Air Carrier upon arrival of the Flight.

Any declaration of loss of Checked Baggage made later will not be taken into account.

In case of damage caused to Checked Baggage (destruction, damages) and according to the applicable Convention, a written protest must be formulated with the Air Carrier as soon as possible and, at the latest, within seven (7) days from the reception of Baggage by the Passenger.

In case of delay, the deadline for complaint is extended to twenty one (21) days at the latest of the Checked Baggage being made available to the Passenger.

From reception of the protest, the Air Carrier will establish a "report of damage or of loss" matched with reserves if any.

In case no agreement is reached between the Air Carrier and the Passenger, the Passenger may bring an action with the competent court within the deadline of two (2) years from the date of arrival of the aircraft at the place of destination or from the date on which the aircraft ought to have arrived.

b) Liability action for Passengers:

Any liability action against the Air Carrier shall be brought within two (2) years of arrival at the place of destination or of the date on which the aircraft ought to have arrived, otherwise any such action shall foreclose.

The method for calculating the deadline shall be determined pursuant to the Law of the concerned court.

c) All claims referred to above shall be made in writing within the specified deadlines.

ARTICLE XVI: AMENDMENTS AND DELETIONS

No agent, employee or representative of the Air Carrier shall be authorised to modify, delete or waive any of the provisions of these General Conditions of Transport.

ARTICLE XVII: OTHER CONDITIONS

The transportation of Passengers and their Baggage is also carried out in accordance with other regulations and conditions applicable or adopted by the Air Transport. These regulations and conditions are periodically modified and important; they concern among other things: the transport of unaccompanied children, pregnant women and sick Passengers.

The relevant information is available at the Air Carrier and may be obtained on request.

ARTICLE XVIII: COMPETENT LAW

The present General Conditions of Transport and any Contract of Transport are governed by Moroccan law in particular as regard their interpretation and execution.
